Abstract

This paper is an attempt to explain the drastic fall in monetization in transitional countries. The concept of monetization is defined, and the positive impact of monetization growth on the economy is shown. We also consider possible factors which may influence monetization with the statistical data provided to support the theoretical analysis. Finally, the theory of monetization is applied to the explanation of the arrears problem in Ukraine.

© Volodymyr Khmurych, EERC, 1998.