

Vyacheslav Sheremirov (PhD Student in Economics, University of California, Berkeley KSE'2008)

The two years of study at KSE were an unforgettable experience that allowed me to learn a lot of new things from both professors and classmates. Being surrounded by smart and industrious individuals helped me to develop those skills which are necessary to acquire and generate new knowledge. After starting my PhD studies at Berkeley, I can affirm with certainty that the standards of economics education at KSE are of the highest international level and that the KSE education was an invaluable preparation for my future career as a professional economist.